Pest Control Insulation and Banker Insulation Bring New Revenue Opportunity for Arizona PCOs

In an effort to deliver an additional service option for Pest Control Operators, Pest Control Insulation, makers of TAP® Pest Control Insulation, has joined forces with Arizona’s largest insulation contractor, Banker Insulation. The alliance enables pest control operators the ability to generate easy profits through a new service offering without the capital expenditure. “Selecting Banker Insulation was an easy choice as their experience and focus on relationship building matched that of the pest control industry. I am confident that their level of service will be ideal for Pest Control clients who are considering adding EPA-registered TAP® Pest Control Insulation to their add-on service offering,” states Bill Turk, Founder and CEO of Pest Control Insulation.

Banker Insulation is highly skilled and deeply experienced in all phases of residential and commercial application, however, Banker Insulation does not sell TAP® Pest Control Insulation directly to homeowners or offer any additional pest control services. “We are excited to share our building science knowledge and commitment to quality to the pest control industry,” shares Jeff Banker, President and CEO of Banker Insulation. This new venture offers PCOs a viable resource for expanding their current TAP® Pest Control Insulation... service to include drill and fill walls as well as having a partner when back-up is needed in the event of end-of-month work overload or temporary equipment or employee challenges. Pest Control Insulation continues to strategically position itself as the nation’s leader in EPA-labeled pest control insulation.
